

Align International

Natural Stone Veneer Collection

Whether Align International products are used indoors or out, for new construction or major remodels and renovations, contractors and architects recognize and appreciate the line's quality materials and ease of installation.

Natural Ledge Stone Panels– Autumn Leaf

Align International products are unlike many other natural thin stones that typically require sizing, cutting and fitting individual pieces in a project. Align International components allow for a faster and more economical construction process with minimal cutting. Thin veneer panels are easy to handle and fit together seamlessly to replicate the look of custom handcrafted stonework.

Natural Appeal

The attractive aesthetics of natural stone veneer panels from Align International Inc. are designed to impress.

This collection of remarkable stone products combines contemporary craftsmanship with the natural hues and textures found in ancient hand cut stone.

Align International products are easy to install and can be applied to walls in the same manner that other thin veneers and tile are applied. Products come precut and assembled in ready to use panels. Measuring only 3/8" – 1-1/4" wide, the thin veneer panels are lightweight and suitable for use on most interior and exterior walls. The stepped panel design provides the appearance of random joints, resulting in a natural looking finished wall without noticeable seams. Precut panels almost eliminate the need for cutting and fitting of individual stone pieces, making installation and clean up more efficient, and typically dramatically reduces labor costs.

Diversity of Products and Applications

Our large palette of product styles and colors enhances classic or contemporary residential and commercial applications of all sizes. Align International hand selects the highest grade of slate, quartz, and sandstone. Choosing very dense and natural stone offers high strength and lasting durability. From the warm hues of Sunset Gold to the bright Crystal White, Align International offers desirable blends, color richness, and texture.
